

Lawrenceville March 26, 2017

Copied from Facebook:

The 2017 CVOTC series opener at Lawrenceville, Va. brought great weather, great traction, a great layout and a great turnout of riders. Thanks to our 10 new friends who drove down to escape the PA winter, we had 36 riders to test their skills on the 8 sections that Mark Barnette and Gary Heyer had laid out via long distance commuting on Phil Simpsons land. Thanks guys.

The sections were a combination of creeks, hillsides, logs and ledges, with varying degrees of difficulty. The novice lines proved to be a challenge for their riders. After the first loop, they decided to practice and play instead of competing. In the sportsman class, the PA boys ran away from the locals and scored better in 4 loops than we could do in 3 as our time ran out. Next time, maybe you northerners should consider the advanced class. Please...

Maddie Hoover put on a show in the expert class, as usual.

Here are the results.
